Pyrites

In your dark bungalow you have a rock collection turquoise, rose quartz, fools gold. When I see the last we metaphor hunts.
You are gold yourself:
smile, hear hair, body — warm gold. I fell in love mistaking appearances
- love for lust yet again I prefer Pyrites. That's what you label it really in your case
It's still beautiful though. It's not gold.
You gave me the
facsimile of an affair a man I thought I'd always dream of -
I wasn't afraid of my memories
only yours
for my years.

No you were not gold you were Pyrites
it is beautiful
I was not fooled
you are beautiful.
Pyrites that is enough Only telling myself
you were fool's gold humbles you.
Ha. You gleamed
that summer
in the desert
How we made love
it lasted a week
but it was worth a fortune I came home younger, free of my depression what gifts California can give I moved out here.
Since you I've felt like gold myself
and I am.
I'm not fooling myself or anyone I've come into my manhood I'm three foot tall

I have all these bones
deformities
but How handsome I am
how glamorous.

~~How my thoughts~~ How we celebrate because ~~they~~ we are not something more or different from the rest How I have described
you, us,
and yet you gave me
you could, we loved as best we knew how and it was beautiful

After the operation

Declaration

Now I will be the delight
of the checkers for weapons and other metal objects on my person at the airport.
I will set off their hip detector alarms.
Now I have a pin in my left arm and a plate in my right thigh.
We will both be unpleased
the checkers and I
that at long last
we have something today to each other

Interstellar

When my grandmother was nine in the Showdresses
lie in bed
and stay out late what's beyond beyond the farthest star.
Now they are buying back Sundays of life on mars.
We are closer to answering questions when we wonder and then we learn what's beyond the farthest story will poets stop writing lovers stop being romantic about the stars,
human loneliness
end?
When Pluto has a website
will little girls then ask what's beyond
beyond the furthest universe.
Do we better not know?

Vital Signs

A nurse looms in the semi darkness.
"I have to take your total vital signs Me says. Your temp, blood pressure pulse, temperature. I am deep in morphine haze as if my existence were a dream What total vital signs have we returned? Think as she speeds off 15 or 20 a little high, 101.4 a little high, 95 a little fast I don't care I'm numb to results I think. Then I am filled with grief. I have meant to be healthy. I love life. I always hope.
It will be fine.
I want to graduate and
fly. I'm not like other sick people. I'm different defying numbers and getting around the statistics young fresh total vigor, and no
reading by talent preys my blood vigor
